Weather Improved, But Shorts Subjected to More Punishment and Close Higher.

The weather was not the dominant influence in the cotton market today. ise prices would not have shown such more favorable. Anticipation of a weekly summary showing unfavorable itimulated some support before midday, but when it came and proved neither better nor worse than expected the market falled to weaken. On the other hand, it kept on advancing and the highest levels yet recorded were seen.

Contracts closed quie to advance of 15 points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 7.—The cotton market showed extreme hervousnesse and a good deal of irregularity during today's early trading. The opening was 120 points higher on April, but there is very little interest in that month, and while May showed an opening advance of 15 points other months were unchanged to 13 points lower under realization seemed inclined to sell in some instances on reports that prohibition of planting in infested areas would not affect an acreage producing more than 35,000 bales per year and private reports of better weather. Realizing or liquidation became more active shortly after the call, with May easing off to 40.18c and October to 34.75c, or 12 to 32 points net lower.

Trade interests continued to buy on the early decline and the market turned firmer late in the morning on a rally in sterling exchange and covering in advance of the weekly weather report. This appeared to meet builsh expectations, particularly in its reference to the Southwest, and was followed by a sharp bulge in prices, with May selling up to 40.50c, a new high record, whill later deliveries recovered most of their early losses with October selling a 35.05c, or within 38 points of last night's closing quotation.

The buillish weekly report of the weather bureau stimulated buying during the afternoon and all months made new high records. May sold up to 41c, or 70 points net higher, and October to 35.45c, or 37 points above last night's closing quotation.

Futures closed very steady at advance of 67 to 2 points.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 7.—The price of cotton lost 29 to 38 points during the first half hour of trading today underseling encouraged by better weather conditions over the belt, the failure of Liverpool to make a good response to the advances of the last couple of days on this side of the water and the unfavorable international political news. May fell away to 39.39c and October to 34.44c. The market held steady at the decline.

May fell away to 39.30c and October to 34.44c. The market held steady at the decline.

Weekly crop returns were considered highly unfavorable and they stimulated new buying of good character and also caused more or less covering of short contracts with the result that prices made fairly strong recoverles. In spite of the fact that the market rose on weather news, May and July were stronger than the later months, May rising to 39.72c. Late in the morning prices were 5 points over to 7 points under the level of yesterday's close.

The market became strongest in the late trading when an important new demand for long account was fell, much of it from outside sources, and the further strengthening of values which it caused frightening shorts into large covering operations. Toward the close the trading months were 34 to 47 points higher than the last prices of yesterday. May advanced to 40.15c.

Declaration of Stock Dividend Scarcity of Offerings Occasion Imparts Strength to Studebaker and Entire List.

NEW YORK, April 7 — Motors and steels dominated the active opening of today's stock market, supplementing for the most part yesterday's substantial gains. Studebaker was the outstanding feature as a result of the 231-2 per cent stock dividend declared yesterday. The first transaction in that issue comprised one block of 18,000 shares at 119 down to 117, an extreme overnight rise of 8 points. United States Steel was again heavily traded in, its initial offering being 10,000 shares at 106, unchanged. Equipments, oils shippings, coppers, food shares and miscellaneous issues were 1 to 2 points higher.

Washingtor —Weekly weather report: Cotton has been further retarded in Southern districts by untavorable weather conditions, especially in east gulf states where rains caused continuation of soil saturation in many localities. Planting made fairly good progress in Southern Louisiana and this work advanced fairly well in Texas except in west and northwest portions where soil continues too dry. Early cotton germinatel rather poorly in Texas and considerable replanting is necessary. More moisture and warmer weather badly needed in that state. High winds and low temperatures were harmful in Texas.

New Orleans—Reported raining be-
